Colonial Erho

Ninetern Hundred Twenty-seven

Published by the Students of

Milliam and Mary College

Pedication

On the vision which, through the passing years has inspired the Builders of Milliam and Mary, typiticd as they are by:

James Blair

Founder of the College

Venjamin S. Ewell

Saviour of the College in the trying post Civil Mar period, and

I. A. C. Chandler

Father of the New William and Mary,

This, the twenty-tifth volume of the Colonial Echo is affectionately and appreciatively dedicated.

Foreword

Out of a firm belief in the virility of the spirit which has ever prompted the Builders of William and Mary to look to the future, cather than to the present, for the realization of their dreams, has grown this attempt to blend the old and the new William and Mary, the idea being to show that William and Mary's brilliant past, serving as it has as the foundation for her substantial present, shall be transmitted in all its glocy to what me have every reason to believe will be her even more brilliant future. The task which has heen ours has been an arduous one, naturally, but it has been executed with the love and affection which only an institution such as ours, one whose ideals have ever been service and progress, can merit. For the errors and inaccuracies of which we are guilty me ask your indulgence, for anything of success which may be ours we ask your praise.

Faithfully yours.

F. Mames Barnes.

Editor-in-Chief.

Alumni Section

"Twenty-five Years Out"

The Editors undertook to get pictures and informational sketches of the fifteen Alumni who graduated in 1902.

The Alumni Catalogue lists State Senator Meek Hampton Copenhaver, Bristol, Tennessee, with the Class of 1902, but the Alumni Office insists that he was really a member of the Class of 1901.

Mr. John Lindsay Long, a Kappa Alpha, and a lawyer of Richmond, died November 1, 1925.

The College of William and Mary as one of the leading educational centers of the south is justly represented by the "Indian Serenaders." Through the efforts of Dt. C. C. Fitchner, director of the William and Mary Foreign Summer Schools, this orchestra successfully completed contracts for the summer of 1926 with the Cunard Line and various resorts through Europe. In a most unique and pleasing manner the name of William and Mary was musically presented to the Europeans by this band of "Southern Collegiates". Few colleges can boast of an orchestra more thoroughly capable and popular.

THE SQUAD

Review Of The Season

WILLIAM AND MARY 35:-RANDOLPH-MACON 0

The Tasker Tribe opened the season on Cary Field against the Yellow Jackets and got off to a running start by trouncing the Welshmen with a heavy score. It was a game of many substitutions and the Mentors used the day to get a line on their material. The Indians scored easily and had no trouble in keeping the ball well in rival territory. They scored in every period of the game and ran two touchdowns over ere the whistle ended the first quarter. Wallick, Fields, Matsu, Bauserman, and Bloxsom scored touchdowns for the Indians, one of which Carmichael paved the way for by skillfully blocking a Jacket punt.

WILLIAM AND MARY 19- LOYOLA 0

Uncorking a driving attack that swept all opposition off its feet, the Indians practically smothered the Loyola eleven and took their second consecutive shut-out victory of the year. Tasker again used his reserves in a great part of the game, and it was only this that kept the Braves from running up a much larger score. Only in the third quarter did the visitors offer any serious resistance, the balance of the time found them at the complete mercy of the Indian drive. From all indications the Warriors were truly on the warpath and even then they gave promise of adding the many scalps that were in later games added to the team's col-

WILLIAM AND MARY 0-SYRACUSE 35

For the first time in many moons the Braves felt the sting of defeat; yet the power of the administrator and the fight that was put up by the Green, Gold and Silver made the defeat a thing of glory rather than shame. Syracuse scored early in the game and from then until the second half the Indians braced and held. However, weight and strength finally wore down the resistance and ere the final whistle blew five touchdowns had been registered against the lighter eleven. Lee Todd and Meb Davis did great work in breaking up the Orange aerial attack and are, therefore, deserving of special mention.

WILLIAM AND MARY THARVARD 25

When the two oldest institutions of learning in the United States met in Cambridge Stadium, seniority seemed to claim the day and take for the Crimson a final decision. It was a greatly improved Harvard team that encountered the Indians and a stiff battle was the result. The local lads, minus their captain-quarterback, found too much Sayles and Clark against them and could not quite cope with the situation at the critical moments. However, the William and Mary passing machine demonstrated its powers to the northern fans and in the final quarter a pass. Ryan to Eason, netted a touchdown

WILLIAM AND MARY 11-GEO. WASHINGTON 0

Home-comers received a treat on their return to Alma Mater in witnessing a battle in which the old team once more claimed victory as its own. The Matsu to Davis combination pulled some clever stunts for their benefit and that, combined with Bloxsom's faultless running attack was largely responsible for the Hatchetites' downfall. A triple-passing combination composed of these same three gridders did some great work during the game and furnished thrills galore for the ardent alumni fans. The fray ended with the ball only a few inches from the opposing goal line, a position which it had occupied during a large part of the game.

WILLIAM AND MARY 48-LYNCHBURG 0

On the High School Field in Newport News, with the majority of the student body on hand for the game, the tribe swamped the Lynchburg craft and ran over touchdown after touchdown before the whistle finally blew. The Hornets had fight, but lacked the sting which is such a necessary part of such insects. Several long passes from McMains to Grant showed earmarks of a threat, but their attempts were always checked before they could result in any damage. For the Indians, Taylor, Bloxsom, Massu.

Indians, Taylor, Bloxsom, Matsu, and Macon did great backfield work and led the way for practically all of the scoring.

WILLIAM AND MARY 10-COLUMBIA 13

When the Braves journeyed to Gothom for their seventh battle of the year, dopesters planned an overwhelming victory for Blue and White, yet when the dust of battle had cleared away spectators went home wondering if the northern institution had really earned its three point margin of victory. Rieger's long runs were responsible for the two touchdowns registered by opponents, otherwise the outcome might have been considerably different. Matsu dropped one over the bar from the 35-yard line in the first half to open the attack and, for a while, it looked like the Indian's game. In the last quarter Meb Davis scooped up a fumble and behind perfect interference, ran 90 yards for a touchdown. The game ended with the Braves sweeping down the fild in a series of brilliant plays.

WILLIAM AND MARY 13-WAKE FOREST 6

This game in Norfolk was voted by many to be the best and most exciting game of the year. The Demon Deacons brought with them the North Carolina state title and were determined to show that they weren't half bad. The Green, Gold, and Silver was a bit better, however, and the crown of victory rested safely on Indian heads when play had finished. Captain Matsu, Baldacci, Macon and Wallick were the big guns for the locals; the latter furnishing a big thrill with a 95-vard run for a touchdown from the kickoff. Rackly and Riley for the Deacons were a dangerous pair, but their efforts were to no avail.

WHLIAM AND MARY 9-CHATTANOOGA 6

Post-season games are new at William and Mary, but they were ushered in in great style by the 'Fighting Virginians.' On the home grounds of the Moccasins, undefeated leaders of the S. I. A. A., the Indians put forth brilliantly and conquered the Tennesseeans, thereby establishing a good claim to the Southern title. To Art Matsu goes much of the credit for the win, for in all phases of the game his work was without flaw and it gave a great finish to the little general's gridtron career. His drop-kick from the 47-yard line proved the margin of victory and incidently established a season's record for Virginia teams, while a punt which traveled '75 yards before striking terra firma claimed the same worthy distinction. A write-up of this game would not be complete without mentioning Carlton Macon, plunging fullback, who pushed over the William and Mary touchdown. Also the work of the retiring warriors, Grove, Todd, and Williams, was of sterling quality that seemed a fitting climax to their work. The points accumulated in the contest placed William and Mary ahead of her nearest rival, the University of Virginia, and earned for her head berth in the list of state scorers.

Thus the resume of the season shows the Indians occupying a high pinnacle of success and looking forward to a still more successful season for the year 1927.

The Baskethall Season For 1927

Though not the most successful season that the Indians have ever had, the court schedule claimed several high spots that branded it perhaps one of the most interesting that has been experienced in several years. With three letter men back, the coaching staff faced the problem of building up a team that would do justice to the heavy schedule that the managers had planned for the season.

THE OPENING GAMES

Things started moving on the Blow Gymn floot and the home stay was for a two game series. A fifty-fifty split was the outcome of the first encounters and the Indians prepared for the road with a victory over the M. C. V. and a loss to Lynchburg chalked up for and against them.

THE FIRST TRIP

Things went badly for the Green, Gold, and Silver when they attempted to conquer the west. W. & L. and Roanoke College in rapid succession handed out stinging defeats which sent the Braves back shaky but still fighting. Solace was gained at the hands of the Randolph-Macon Welshmen and the boys proved to the world at large that the Yellow Jacket sting is not as dangerous as generally imagined. A bitter pill was adminstered to the local lads on their bit of play, when the Richmond Spider aggregation nosed out the Indians by a two point margin. Even then, though it was an upset of dope and the result was added zest to the Indian cause.

WALLICK-Guard

BACK AT HOME

For the third consecutive year, the Red of Stevens invaded the local floor and for the first time in all of those three years, they were repelled with marks of defeat visible. The return game with Lynchburg also went in the home direction and the second straight was recorded for W & M. The streak couldn't go on for ever so the Emory and Henry Wasps gave the sting that the Jackets had failed to deliver.

KENT-Forward

INTO THE VALLEY OF DEATH!

The annual northern trip proved to be the most disastrous period of the season for three teams in rapid succession practically smothered the Indians under a pile of scores that spoke better for the opposition than for the home team. Only one contest out of four went in favor of the Indians and again they returned and again they were undaunted.

SNYDER--Forward

THE GRAND CLIMAX OF THE SEASON

At home again only two games remained on the season's card. Randolph-Macon offered little resistance and was soon disposed of. Then the test! With odds, dope, and opinion all against the Indians, they entertained the Spiders in a return match on the home floor. With colors flying and team work that left the critics and dopesters gasping, the quint swept the Red and Blue aside like so many leaves and fought their way to a great victory. With such an ending the early errors of the year were forgotten and students "en mass" declared the season a howling success.

Baseball for 1926

For many years the diamond sport at William and Mary has been very representative of just what Indian athletes can do. Very few spring schedules have been completed that have not been credited to the Green, Gold, and Silver's success and the play of the 1926 nine was no exception to the rule. Under the guiding hand of Captain Johnson Moss, the team swept aside the best of the East's entries, yet lost the Virginia-Carolina title to Richmond by virtue of a loss to the Medical College of Virginia.

The season opened on the home grounds with a series of good contests. Dartmouth College proved to be the first victims of the Indians and suffered a 7-6 loss at the Braves' hands. Immediately following, the Orange of Syracuse was entertained on Cary Field and with the memory of football still lingering in student minds, the powerful northern machine was fought to a standstill and the two game series ended with a win and a tie for the local lads. Easter Monday and the third game of the year proved the downfall of the Tribe, though, and Princeton departed, the proud possessors of a 9-8 decision. Another loss was suffered when the Holy Cross team, inter-collegiate champions won by a good score, but Wofford College proved the ideal enemy and the Indians added another scalp to their belts. To continue the alternating record the next fray went against the locals 3-2 in favor of the Wake Forest tossers, but things again went our way and the Lynchburg Hornets were shut out 8-0 while the Indian twirlers held them to two safe hits.

The Richmond Jinx landed hard on the Tribe in the next contest and William and Mary supporters saw the Braves go down in defeat as a result of a seventh inning blow-up. Entering the fatal frame with a two run margin, even the most optimistic Spider was conceding the Taskerites a victory, but in steps Mr. Jinx to demand the game for the Red and Blue. A 11-4 victory over Duke University ended the home stay for the Tribe. They took the road for the annual northern jaunt.

IN FOREIGN FIELDS

The first game away from home was an nexed by the Indians from Swathmore with the Indians hitting like professionals, but Penn University dampened their spirits with a defeat. With a determination born in a spirit of vengeance, the Holy Cross nine retaliated for the defeat of the former year and slugged out a victory. Tufts College was the second road victim of the Indians and were forced into submission by the Virginia aggregation. Boston College got their batting eve working and ere they could be checked had sewed up the game for themselves, and in the final game the Indians again lost to Providence.

IN OLD VIRGINIA AGAIN

Determined to settle old scores the Braves invaded the stronghold of the Dobsonites and exhibiting a stellar brand of baseball, sent the Red and Blue down to decisive defeat. It was a great day for William and Mary enthusiasts and great was the rejoicing in the camp of the Tribe.

A two-game series with the Randolph-Macon Yellow Jackets ended the year for the Indian athletes. The games both went in favor of the Indians and fitted as a just climax to the year.

With a strong reserve that is returning for the 1927 season, and a number of varsity men remaining, a great year should be experienced. Thompson, third baseman of three years' standing, will lead the Green, Gold, and Silver, and predictions are favorable for a banner diamond season.

HOCKEY

Another intercollegiste sport has made its long-hoped-for appearance on the campus. This fall saw the William and Mary Hockey Team play its first intercollegiate game on the home field, which proved to be a success beyond all expectations. On November 20th George Washington University sent its best warriors down from the Capitol and they found the Indianettes worthy foes. The game ended 6-3 in favor of William and Mary. That afternoon showed what great strides this sport has made since it started here five years ago and those who remember Sweet Briar last year were agreeably surprised at the spirit, pluck and improvement exhibited by practically the same team this year. The forward line plaved with splendid team work. Captain Wilkins in combination with Trevvett plaved a fast clever game and the two were many times responsible for the ball being in the home territory. Cogle made the first goal for William and Mary. DeShazo starred by making four of the six goals made. The other goal was made by Carter, center forward. The back field played a hard, consistent game, for the George Washington forwards were no easy opponents. Zimmerman, manager, played her position of left half with determination and pluck. Chewning and Hines divided honors in center half, but both made trouble for the George Washington center forward. Hoffman in right half was excellent assistance to her forwards. Miles and Harwood as fullbacks played a defense game that cost their opponents many goals. Farmer as goalkeeper certainly "kept" the goal for William and Mary, allowing only three balls to pass her. On a whole the game was one of which the College may well be proud.

Basket Ball

A season without a defeat! What an accom plishment for an athletic team, it is a goal sought by all teams and often in vain. The Women's Basket Ball Team of 1927 not only played through a whole season without a defeat but in seven games—played they made an average score of 40 to their oponents 15. The colleges played were some of—the strongest in the East. Everyone knows of the athletic reputation of Temple University, New York University and Adelphi. Sweet Briar and George Washington have long been keen rivals of William—and Mary in the field of sport. The mention of Westhampton brings to the mind of every student the exciting games of all kinds played between William and Mary and Richmond University and they—know what a strong team Richmond can put out.

The season began with the Adelphi game. On the night of February 12 the Jefferson Hall Gymnasium was crowded with students anxious to see the first women's basket ball game of 1927. The Indianette team lived up to all expectations, even surpassing them, for although they fought hard they came ou tiloriously victorious. The final score was 49-21 in favor of William and Mary.

The second game with Westhampton was even more successful than the first because of the greater strength of the opposing team. The write- up of this game in the Richmond Times-Dispatch gave an account of the game as follows: "Six little green clad squaws from Indiantown, after hoisting the banner of victory over their own wigwams in every encounter thus far proceeded to invade the stronghold of their sturdy braves bitterest rivals and out-guard, out-smart and out-pass the much heavier Westhampton College cage sextet to win a one-sided 49-16 victory on the Roger Millhiser court yesterday afternoon, before a throng that numbered close to 800.

Next came Sweet Briar, a rival with whom friendly and spirited contests have been held since William and Mary has had a woman's basket ball team. The Sweet Briar Team came to William and Mary this year for the second home game of the season. Those students who had seen Sweet Briar play before, looked forward to the game with a great deal of interest and some apprehension, for Sweet Briar had always had a strong team. The game on February 19 was one of the prettiest of the season. Both teams played fast and hard displaying splendid spirit and clever headwork. The interest was high until the final whistle, for the score did not indicate Sweet Briar's strength.

New York University was the third visitor to enter the Indian Stronghold. The Northerners fared no better than their predecessors and when the final whistle blew they held the low end of a 47-15 score. This game was the second encounter William and Mary has had with with New York University. The first having been when the Indian ettes defeated them in New York in 1926.

The New York game ended the season on the home floor. The Coed team fared forth hunting new worlds to conquer. Twelve basket ball players with coach Barksdale and Manager Myrick left Williamsburg March 3rd for Philadelphia.

The first game of the ttip was with Temple University, the team which came here four years ago with approximately 60 straight victories to their credit. Last year was the first time William and Mary has been able to defeat them. The game this year is said to have been the hardest game the Indianettes had to play. At the end of the first half Temple was ahead by three points and the third quarter ended in a tie. William and Mary came back for the fourth quarter with their old spirit and at the end of the game the score was 25-19 in favor of William and Mary.

The Drexel game proved an easy victory for William and Mary, so the Co-eds left Philadelphia with two more games to their credit.

The last game was with George Washington and was a fitting end to a most successful season, for like Temple this was a very hard game. There was a time when things looked dark for the girls from Williamsburg, but not to the end. George Washington was ahead in the first half and kept the lead well into the third quarter. The Indianettes rallied in this quarter making a sensational finish by not allowing George Washington to score a point in the fourth quarter. This brought the season to a victorious close with a score of 21-13.

In the 1926 tennis season the women's team made an even break in its matches, winning two and losing two. In May the team took its first trip, to Newport News. This match, and the return one at Williamsburg, the Indianettes took with ease, although some of the games were hard fought. In the matches with George Washington University, the Co-eds were not so successful. Of the five games of the first encounter they won one doubles match; however, the scores were close. In the second meeting at Williamsburg, William and Mary lost all matches to the superior George Washington Players.

At the close of the tennis season seven awards were given. Captain Wilkins received a star, signifying another year's work on the Tennis Varsity. Moody also received a star and Mc-Daniels, Tanner, Slemp, Osmond and Manager Whitehead all received monograms. McDaniels was elected captain tor 1927 and Osmond was elected manager.

Another interesting feature of the tennis season was the Cup Tournament. Each year this cup is awarded the women's tennis champion of the school to be held by her until the next year. Should anyone ever win this cup three times, it shall be permanently hers. Fllen Moody, winner last year, also won it in 1921, but in 1925 Jane Moss took it from her. Miss Moody is not back this year so there is a great deal of speculation as to who will win it this year.
